

©CIM 3017 C A FAST WORKER.

This modern life in a big, wide, wicked city, develops many complicated situations and just as many curious people.

Bimbo cat was quite a highbrow, but did his own shaving. Then his butler brought his Sherlock Holmes cape and high hat, and the Bimbo exists through a trap door in the floor. Outside he appears just as mysteriously through a door in the stone wall.

There after his whole day is one maraculous adventure after another. For Bimbo seems to be known by the police and perhaps too well. Nevertheless, they never give up following him, despite his shrewd ways of evading them.

Continully he is changing his form in disguise from flivver cars, to blood hounds, frankfurters and flying row boats.

After a very long chase, he ducks around a corner, pulls out a club and flattens a few dozen cops. Then put up his big sign before the gathered throng, which reads, "Bimbo worlds greatest magician here today."

Aesop Says: "A stitch in time saves embarrement."

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

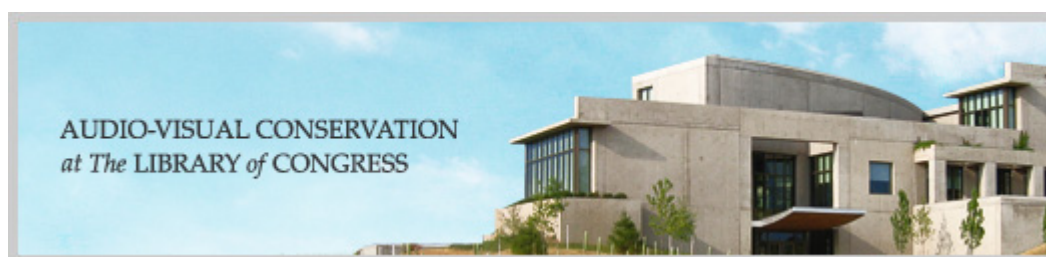

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress